MIAMI â?? On Saturday, October 24, our community experienced a day filled with profound emotion, civic spirit, and historical remembrance during a gathering centered on fraternal connection. The highlight of the event was the screening of the powerful feature film Plantados (2021)â??a cinematic work that provides a raw, realistic portrayal of the horrors, torture, and systematic abuse endured by political prisoners in Cuban jails.

The presentation of the film took on an even deeper, more historic dimension thanks to the introductory remarks by prominent former political prisoner Ã•ngel de Fana, director of the organization Plantados hasta la Libertad y la Democracia en Cuba (Steadfast for Freedom and Democracy in Cuba). Drawing on the moral authority earned through more than two decades spent in the regimeâ??s prisons, De Fana offered an emotional testimony that prepared the hearts of the audience for what they were about to see on screen.https://www.thebeardstruggle.com/discount/CHANGE-ME-eda6357?ref=y2exnjy

A Heart-Wrenching Truth on Screen

The film succeeded in deeply moving and shaking everyone present in the auditorium by capturing the unyielding resistance of those men who refused to surrender to their captors. Attendees remarked on how striking it was to witness the stark reality of the punishment cells, the forced labor, and the psychological violence to which these Cubans were subjectedâ??all for the â??crimeâ?• of defending their ideals.

Beyond the pain, the screening served to reaffirm the true meaning of this historical term. As highlighted during the gathering, a â??plantadoâ?•â??a term denoting someone who stands firmâ??is anyone who fights for freedom and democracy in Cuba with dignity, keeping their principles intact despite any attempt to break their spirit.

A Call to Keep the Memory Alive

This fraternal gathering made it clear that the sacrifice of these men must not be forgotten. The courage of these historic political prisoners remains a driving force and a living example for current and future generations of Cubans who continue the pursuit of a free, just, and democratic homeland.
